FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Robert Sims Named 2024–2025 Alaska Sports Official of the Year

The Alaska School Activities Association is proud to announce that Robert Sims has been selected as the 2024–2025 Alaska Sports Official of the Year in recognition of his outstanding service, leadership, and dedication to high school athletics across the state.

A respected official in football, softball, and volleyball, Sims has earned statewide recognition for his professionalism, integrity, and consistent commitment to excellence. Officiating across multiple highly competitive sports requires exceptional knowledge, composure, and judgment, qualities that have made Sims a trusted presence on the field, diamond, and court.

“Robert’s dedication to fair play and sportsmanship has had a tremendous impact on Alaska athletics,” said Billy Strickland, Executive Director of the Alaska School Activities Association. “His professionalism and leadership have earned the respect of coaches, athletes, fellow officials, and communities throughout the state.”

In addition to his work during competition, Sims has also played an important role in mentoring and supporting the next generation of officials, helping strengthen the culture of officiating throughout Alaska.

The Alaska Sports Official of the Year honor recognizes individuals who demonstrate exemplary service, leadership, and commitment to interscholastic athletics. Sims’ contributions have helped uphold the values of fairness, respect, and integrity that are central to high school sports.
