OVERVIEW

The competitive Drama, Debate, and Forensics (DDF) season begins on the first day of school, and culminates with the ASAA State Championships Tournament, typically held during the third weekend in February. DDF encompasses a variety of competitive events in which students have the opportunity to compete on behalf of their school, while developing their research, critical thinking, acting, and oral communication skills.

The competition season is organized around regional tournaments which are hosted by participating schools. For example, there are roughly six tournaments hosted in the Anchorage-area throughout the regular season, while the Southeast region of Alaska will generally offer five tournaments prior to the State Championships Tournament.

Tournaments throughout the regular season can be thought of as practice for the state championship tournament. In order to compete at the end-of-season State Championships Tournament, students must have first qualified in the events they wish to compete in at State. Qualifying to compete in an event at the state tournament requires that a student have competed in that event in at least two competitions prior to the state tournament. These competitions can be intrasquad meets if necessary.

While the length of the season provides some challenges for coaches, it also provides many opportunities for students to engage with DDF competition while also participating in other ASAA activities. It is not uncommon for many students to join DDF well after the start of the season, typically after completion of other sports (e.g. cross-country running, swimming & diving, etc.).

Suggestions regarding improvements or changes to the existing rules and/or events are discussed at the annual Coaches Association meeting, typically held at the beginning of the last day (Saturday) of the State tournament. Queries regarding existing rules and procedures throughout the regular season may be directed to members of the Coaches Association Rules committee.

RULES COMMITTEE

The Rules Committee consists of an ASAA staff member or designee and two current DDF coaches.

CODE OF ETHICS

The ASAA/First National Bank Alaska Drama, Debate and Forensics State Championship is designed to promote intellectual growth through friendly competition and positive educational experiences and opportunities.

The goal for each participant and coach is to learn, to grow, to exercise and share skills and abilities in a courteous, polished manner.

All participants, observers, and coaches are expected to observe the general principles and concepts of:

- Ethical behavior
- Appropriate demeanor
- Proper decorum
- Honest and original best efforts
- Free interchange of ideas

ASAA's goals in sponsoring competitive academic debating are:

- To train students in analysis, reasoning, research, and evaluation in the techniques of mental discipline, evaluation of evidence, case construction, persuasive speaking and investigation of controversial and significant public issues.
- To promote independent thinking, intellectual honesty and individuality.
- To develop an appreciation for the basic mechanism of democracy.

The aims and responsibilities of a speech, drama and debate coach are:

- To guide the intellectual development of the speakers to promote and provide opportunities for them to develop their skills.
- To engender good sportsmanship, fair play and individual integrity.
- To perform the role of educator and administrator (rather than speech writer, researcher nor case planner).
- To supervise students at all times during tournaments.

The following practices are considered unethical, pedagogically unsound, and are not condoned:

- The distortion or falsification of evidence.
- The altering of material in interpretative events that is contrary to the author's intent.
- The writing of cases, speeches, and introductions by anyone other than the student.
- The use of canned (i.e. re-use of previously prepared) speeches in extemporaneous speaking.
- The use of emotional appeals without the evidence to support them.
- The diverting of attention from weakness in argument by unsupported attacks on the opponent.
- The breaching of normal courtesy by heckling, grimacing or loud whispering while the opponent is speaking or performing.
- The use of the same material in two different years by the same individual even if it is a different event.

TEAM INTEGRITY

A Policy or Public Forum Debate team consists of two students debating both sides of the question. LD requires one debater to argue either side of the resolution.. No substitution is permitted after the start of the first round. If a debater gets sick for a single round, it will be treated as a “no show.”

DEBATE EVIDENCE RULES

Presentation of Evidence: Debaters may use evidence gathered from lecture, pamphlet, electronic media, or other source if the tape, transcript, or published proof is submitted within 30 minutes of request.

Falsification of Evidence;

1. Deliberately making up a whole quotation.
2. Providing the wrong year or the wrong source, or modifying the source.
3. Leaving words out of the original or taking the evidence out of context.

Note: Inaccurate interpretation or misconstruing of evidence is not falsification

Judges have the right to inspect evidence cards. If a team makes falsification charges, that team must have proof for those charges. They cannot make the charge just because they think it happened. If falsification has been charged in a debate round, and if so instructed by the judge, the challenged team has one-half hour after the debate round ends to produce the original source. If the support is not offered within the half hour, the challenged team is disqualified from the tournament. The judge should take action only if falsification has been raised as an issue by the opposing team. If the charge has been wrongly made, the team making the charges will face the same penalty as if they did the falsification themselves. Falsification of evidence charges should be made immediately when the debate is over and not during the debate.

If debaters in CX, LD or PF meet for a second time in the same tournament, they MUST reverse sides.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

The ASAA Board of Directors will annually determine the site and date of the Drama, Debate and Forensics State Championships.

PARTICIPATION & FEES

The state tournament is open to students enrolled in grades 9-12 at any ASAA member high school that meet ASAA eligibility requirements. Schools will be assessed a participation fee per student participant. See ASAA Handbook for details.

ENTRIES

Students may enter one to three events. Students must qualify in the event(s) they enter. To qualify for an event a student must have competed at least two times in that event during regular season meets. Video and teleconference meets count as competitions, as do intrasquad rounds provided coaches bring in a volunteer judge, who fills out a ballot and records speaking times. For debate, if a student in Lincoln Douglas or students in Policy or Public Forum do not have anyone to debate against, a coach may document practices and/or arrange to have practice debates with assistant coaches or community members. These would count towards qualification.

School entry limits;

- Maximum competitors per school - 15 students
- Debate - 9 entries total (e.g. a debate team involving two students = 1 debate entry)
- Readers' Theatre and Extemporaneous Commentary - 2 entries
- All other events - 3 entries

DIVISIONS

Individual participants compete against all other entries in their events. Schools compete against schools within their division. Schools with 501 students and above are in Division I and schools with 1-500 students are in Division II.

RULES

Entry deadlines are final. No changes or additions may occur after the scheduled deadlines. All entries must be in the possession of the tournament director before deadlines, or they will not be accepted.

The tabulation room is closed. Only persons designated by the tournament director are permitted in the tabulation room. For questions or concerns an information desk will be staffed at all times.

Students are not allowed to compete unless their coach is present at the tournament site. If an emergency arises, the coach must obtain approval from the tournament director to leave the competition site and must designate another adult to supervise his/her students.

An Extemporaneous Preparation Room will be provided. Competitors may not talk to one another while in the room and must remain in the room during preparation time.

All coaches need to be available throughout the tournament to help judge events.

As necessary, students who are not currently in a competitive round will be asked to serve as timers.

All events are timed during preliminary rounds. An introduction is considered part of the speech or presentation and must be timed. All non-debate events have a 15 second "grace period". If the judge(s) in a round determine that a student has exceeded the maximum time and gone beyond the "grace period," the student may not be ranked 1st but need not be ranked last. In debate events, once a student has reached their allocated time limit within a speech, they may conclude their sentence and must immediately end their speech.

If a speaker or performer does not appear as scheduled due to a scheduling conflict, that speaker or performer has until the end of the scheduled round to speak. Participants not appearing will be disqualified from the event. Participants or a coach should notify the judge of schedule conflicts.

No substitutions will be allowed for any competitor for any reason. If a competitor misses a round for any reason that person/team will receive a single disqualification for that round.

If a problem arises with surrounding noise or other distractions, a coach may request a room change.

Any form of recording will be allowed in a round only with the verbal consent of all the round's participants.

A debate round is considered an open forum, and flow charts may be taken by any audience member.

Coaching during debates is prohibited. This includes all verbal and non-verbal signals by the coach to his/her team.

No electronic retrieval devices are allowed during a round of competition. A round of competition is defined as from the time the 1st speaker begins until the last speaker concludes. In extemporaneous events this is defined as the start of an extemp draw until the competitor's speech concludes. This rule does not apply to the authorized use of laptops in extemporaneous speaking or any debate event.

A student may not enter the same event twice at the same State Tournament (e.g. one student may not compete twice in Duet Acting with two different partners).

A student entered in two separate events at the ASAA State Tournament may not use the same selection of literature in both events.

A school may repeat a piece for Readers' Theatre with a one-year gap in between, provided the same students are not in the piece again.

All rankings and ballots are made available to coaches before posting. Coaches may check drama and forensics ballots after round two.

A coach or participant may NOT approach or discuss with a judge any decisions or reasons for decisions. Doing so will result in disqualification of the participant or school from the tournament, and all places, wins, etc., previously earned will be nullified. Coaches should instruct participants not to ask judges for any feedback pertaining to the outcome of the round.

A student may not use a cutting from a work of literature that the student used in an ASAA state competition, NSDA district competition or NSDA national competition in any previous contest year. In addition, if a student performed a cutting from a piece of literature at three or more (cumulative) competitions in any previous season, the cutting is disallowed.

Schools may appeal the application of a rule or any other tournament related matter by submitting a completed Protest Form to the tournament director within 30 minutes of the results being posted. If unsatisfied with the tournament director's decision the school or coach may appeal to the jury of appeals.

A competitor may be disqualified for a variety of reasons. The level of disqualification will be determined by the tournament director depending upon the infraction.

Simple Disqualification is for inadvertently breaking a tournament rule while competing. The disqualification is only for the round in which the infraction occurred.

Event Disqualification is for breaking a tournament event rule. Examples include: the piece presented in an interpretive event is not published; the competitor is competing with the same piece from a previous year; or the competitor uses the same piece in two events. Disqualification is for the entire event in which the infraction occurred.

Tournament Disqualification is for an egregious violation of ethic rules as outlined in the tournament handbook. This may include plagiarism, falsification of evidence, or improper decorum other than which might be expected in a high school competition. Questioning a judge's decision may also result in a tournament disqualification.

SWEEPSTAKES POINTS

Points toward school sweepstakes are computed in the following ways:

LINCOLN-DOUGLAS, POLICY AND PUBLIC FORUM DEBATE*:

1st	15 points
2nd	13 points
3rd	11 points
4th	9 points

DRAMA AND FORENSICS:

1st	9 points
2nd	7 points
3rd	5 points
4th	3 points
Finalist	1 point

READERS' THEATRE:

1st	12 points
2nd	10 points
3rd	8 points
4th	6 point
Finalist	3 points

*In debate events, there are sweepstakes limits based on a per event restriction and a total debate entry restriction:

A. Should a school advance more than three entries in a single format, its sweepstakes tally will be limited to its three highest placing finishers. All remaining sweepstakes points will shift to the non-advancing seeds. For example, if a squad advances five LD entries, only the top three would earn sweepstakes points. As such, the 9th and 10th seeds at the end of preliminary rounds would each earn their squad nine sweepstakes points. (Note: In the event a squad closes out the semifinal round, then the highest seeded non-advancing quarterfinalist would earn eleven sweepstakes points.)

B. Should a school advance more than six total debate entries, its sweepstakes tally will be limited to its six highest placing finishers. All remaining sweepstakes points will shift per the guidelines described in Section A. In the event that the squad has entries in two different events that could occupy the sixth sweepstakes spot, a coin toss will determine which event will count towards sweepstakes; thus, determining in which event the adjusted sweepstakes points will fall. For example, if a squad's 6th & 7th highest placing finishers reach the quarterfinals in LD and PF, then a coin toss would determine whether the 9th seed in LD or PF will earn the nine sweepstakes points.

AWARDS

Participation Certificates for every participant.

Individual medallions for first through fourth place in each event (combined divisions).

First place awards in Debate, Drama and Forensics in both Division I and II.

First and second place sweepstakes award in both Division I and II.

Academic Award in both Division I and II

Sportsmanship award in both Division I and II.

STATE TOURNAMENT MANAGEMENT

TOURNAMENT DIRECTOR

The tournament director is approved by ASAA. The director oversees all phases of the tournament, such as setting the schedule, securing student timers, establishing committees set up to run the tournament, and operating the tournament in an educational and competitive manner.

JURY OF APPEALS

The Jury of Appeals consists of an ASAA staff member, the host school administrator or designee and the President of the DDF Coaches Association. If the President's school is involved in the protest another officer will take their place.

GUIDELINES FOR SELECTION OF JUDGES

- Coaches should not judge final rounds.
- It is preferred that no judge shall judge the same individual event twice in the tournament.
- It is preferred that no debate judge shall judge more than one of each quarter, semi or final round in each type of debate.
- A debate judge may not judge a team if he/she has already judged that team on that side.
- There is one judge in each debate preliminary round.
- There are three judges in each quarter-final and semi-final round.
- There are three or five judges in each final round.
- No judge shall have participated in high school debate, drama or forensics in the previous year.
- In individual events there will be the same number of judges in each preliminary round.

SECTIONING OF EVENTS

In each forensics and drama event, separate sections are scheduled if there are more than seven entries for that event. No more than seven students may compete in a preliminary or final round. In case of a tie, the tab room will determine a clean break. Each round will be judged by at least one judge, although more may be used.

JUDGES

Disruption - If a judge feels that circumstances beyond a performer's control seriously impaired his or her performance (for example, a fire alarm, loudspeaker announcement, etc .) the judge has the option to allow the performer to begin again. Judges should proctor the room to maintain a positive atmosphere.

Ranking - In non-debate events, the judges rank students 1st -5th. If more than five students are in a section, all remaining students are ranked 5th.

Return of Ballots - Judges return ballots to a designated location and/or member of the tournament staff as determined by the tournament director.

When no timer is available for an event, the judge will assume that responsibility.

TIME LIMITS

All events are timed during preliminary rounds. A competitor's time should be recorded on the ballot. An introduction is considered part of the speech or presentation and must be timed. The only events which will be timed after preliminary rounds are debate events and Extemporaneous Speaking events.

All non-debate events have a 15 second "grace period". If the judge(s) in a round determine that a student has exceeded the maximum time and gone beyond the "grace period," the student can not be ranked 1st but need not be ranked last. In debate events, once a student has reached their allocated time limit within a speech, they may conclude their sentence and must immediately end their speech.

DEBATE PAIRING GUIDELINES - PRELIMINARY

All teams entered are guaranteed five rounds of debate at the state tournament. Affirmative and negative sides will be as equally divided as possible. Results of the first two preliminary rounds will not be posted until the conclusion of a second round. All coaches are then allowed to check ballots and postings before the fourth and fifth are posted. The last three rounds will be power matched within brackets. At the conclusion of the fifth round, eight teams will be selected for a quarter-final round.

A blind draw will be used for pairings in debate rounds one and two.

Beginning with the third round, bracket pairing are employed. All of the teams in the tournament are ranked on the basis of their win-loss record and speaker points. The tournament director divides the teams into brackets based on win-loss record, then matches the strongest against weakest within the bracket. If there is an odd number of teams in the bracket, the middle team in each bracket meets the middle team in the next lower bracket. The same method is used for correcting undesirable pairings; the top team may have to be paired against the next to last team in the bracket in order to get a pairing that works.

DEBATE TEAM ADVANCEMENT

If there are twelve or fewer debate teams entered in any debate event, the Tournament Director shall break four teams directly to the Semi-Final round. If there are six or fewer debate teams entered in any debate event, the Tournament Director shall break two teams directly to the Final round. Those teams dropped at the break to elimination rounds do not receive awards for placement nor are entitled to Sweepstakes Points.

DEBATE OCTO-FINALS

If there are 28 or more entries, round five will be an octo-final round. In octo-finals for debate, the following procedures are followed:

- Top sixteen meet in the octo-final round.
- Those who do not advance to the octo-final round will have a consolation round during round five.
- In octo-finals, power protecting is employed, one vs sixteen, two vs fifteen, three vs fourteen, four vs thirteen, five vs twelve six vs eleven, seven vs ten, eight vs nine. These are the pairings unless it is necessary to shift some teams to avoid:
 - The meeting of teams from the same school.
 - The meeting of teams which have previously met in the tournament.

Octo-final is a sudden death round with the losers being declared fifth place finishers in the tournament. At the end of the fifth round of debating, those teams who have won their octo-final rounds will advance to a quarter-final round, following the established procedure for quarter-finals. There are no additional sweepstakes points awarded to fifth place finishers.

DEBATE QUARTER-FINALS

In the quarter-finals for debate, the following procedures are followed: the top eight meet in the quarter-final round. Power protecting is employed, one vs eight, two vs seven, three vs six and four vs five. These are the pairings unless it is necessary to shift some teams to avoid:

- The meeting of teams from the same school.
- The meeting of teams which have previously met in the tournament.

Quarter-final is a sudden death round with the losers being declared fourth place finishers in the tournament. At the end of the sixth round of debating power protection is employed one vs four and two vs three. These are the pairings unless it is necessary to shift some teams to avoid:

- The meeting of teams from the same school.
- The meeting of teams which have previously met in the tournament.

The losers of these debates are declared the third place teams and then one and two debate for first and second place.

Numbers for seeding purposes will be based on (in this order):

1. Win-loss record.
2. The total ranks received by the team in the previous rounds of debating.
3. The total number of speaker points received by the team in the previous rounds of debating.
4. As a final tie breaker, if the two teams have debated each other previously, the team that won that round is the overall winner.
5. If the two teams have not met in the tournament, there will be a debate to determine the finishing position.

Each team should have an equal, or near equal number of affirmative and negative rounds.

If it is necessary for two teams to meet for a third time, side sequence alteration should be the number one priority. If both teams are due to uphold the same side, a coin flip or blind draw will be used to determine the affirmative team.

BYES

A bye will not count as a loss; it will count as a win and that team receives the average of its rank and speaker points from its preliminary debates in the tournament. There will be no byes in the quarter-final, semi-final or final rounds of debate.

GUIDELINES FOR NON DEBATE ELIMINATION ROUNDS

Breaking to Semi-Final Rounds - If any event other than debate has 32 or more contestants, there will be a semi-final round of competition. The semi-finalists will be decided based upon their records in three preliminary rounds of competition. The target number of contestants in a semi-final round is twelve. Contestants will advance to the semi-final round on the first clean break occurring in this order: 12, 10, 14, 11, 13.

The following procedures will be used to determine which competitors advance to the semi-final round:

1. The lowest cumulative rank from preliminary rounds
2. The highest reciprocal rank from preliminary rounds
3. The winner of a head-to-head matchup in a preliminary round
4. The most 1's in preliminary rounds
5. The highest total of combined speaker points from preliminary rounds

Breaking to Final Rounds - In any event other than debate, the target number of contestants in a final round is six. Contestants will advance to the final round on the first clean break occurring in this order: 6, 5, 7. A final round will never have fewer than five contestants, nor more than seven contestants.

With a Semi-Final Round - If there has been a semi-final round, the top three contestants from each section will advance to the final round. The tournament director will determine which contestants advance using the following criteria (in this order):

1. Low cumulative rank in semi-finals
2. Judges' preference in semi-finals
3. Reciprocal ranks in semi-finals

4. Low cumulative ranks in semi-finals and preliminary rounds combined
5. The winner of a head-to-head matchup in a preliminary round
6. The most 1's in preliminary rounds
7. The highest total of combined speaker points from preliminary rounds

Without a Semi-Final Round

If there has been no semi-final round, the tournament director will determine which contestants advance using the following criteria (in this order):

1. Low cumulative rank in preliminary rounds
2. Highest reciprocal rank in preliminary rounds
3. The winner of a head-to-head matchup in a preliminary round
4. The most 1's in preliminary rounds
5. The highest total of combined speaker points from preliminary rounds

DETERMINING A FINAL ROUND WINNER

To determine the winner of a final round in any event other than debate, the tournament director will use the following criteria (in this order):

1. Low cumulative rank in finals
2. Judges' preference in finals
3. Reciprocal ranks in finals
